Water Gap

COUNTRY CLUB

A golf-oriented resort, Water Gap Country Club is small enough to be sincerely interested in you yet large enough to offer modern comfort and conveniences.

Located in historic Delaware Water Gap, Pennsylvania, we're 70 miles west of New York City and 90 miles north of Philadelphia... exit 310 off Interstate 80.

Until the early

1940's, Water Gap Country Club was famed as Wolf Hollow Country Club and was the birthplace of the Eastern Open. The course today is the same well-groomed test that confronted the golfing greats of the Golden Era of Sports. Golfers now tread in the footsteps of such immortals as Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen, MacDonald Smith, Willie MacFarland, and Leo Diegel.

Today's Water Gap Country Club retains much of the nostalgia of the Wolf Hollow era. From the historic charm of the clubhouse and grounds to the links design of Scottish architect Robert White, Water Gap Country Club retains a special bond to the past.

Water Gap Country Club is a semi-private golf resort which offers golf access to members, public, and tournament play. Whether you are joining as a golf member, hosting your company outing, or simply enjoying a relaxing round of golf, you will discover that Water Gap Country Club has a special atmosphere that makes it unique.

THE GOLF COURSE

HAGEN'S FOLLY

Water Gap Country Club's number 4 hole (formerly number 12 during the Wolf Hollow years) is famed as "Hagen's Folly" It is remembered that Walter Hagen, arguably the best golfer of his era, scored a disastrous nine on this hole during a major tournament. This par 3, 120 yard hole, with elevated green and tee, remains just as hazardous to today's golfer.

*B*uilt in 1922, this 18-hole Championship layout offers a rare challenge to all golfers. The course capitalizes on the natural features of some of the Pocono's most picturesque terrain to present a true challenge. This formidable course rewards the shot maker and position player. Breaking Walter Hagen's course record 64 is an overwhelming task indeed! Whatever your score, you will enjoy the gorgeous scenic beauty of our 18 holes!

The Golf shop is professionally staffed and well-stocked.

Our golf staff offers lessons, bag storage, handicap service and a wide variety of quality golf apparel. Water Gap owns its well-maintained fleet of over 65 golf carts.
